

NLU-Kolloquium "Natur-, Landschafts- und Umweltschutz", Herbstsemester 18

Montag 12.30 - 13.30 Uhr, Hörsaal NLU-Gebäude

Datum	ReferentIn	Thema
01.10.18	PD Dr. Seraina Klopstein Naturhistorisches Museum Basel	Why are there so many parasitoid wasp species? Challenges and rewards in studying a poorly known taxon
08.10.18	Prof. Zoe Davies Durrell Institute, University of Kent, GB	Biodiversity and the feel-good factor: understanding how urban wildlife underpins human well-being
29.10.18	Dr. Lucienne de Witte Institute for Applied Plant Biology, Witterswil	Digging deeper into ectomycorrhizal communities of Swiss beech forests
26.11.18	Dr. Sascha Buchholz Dept. Ecology, TU Berlin, D	Moving downtown – challenges and opportunities for urban animals
10.12.18	Dr. Denes Schmera Balaton Limnological Institute, Tihany, HU	Effects of urbanization on the diversity of freshwater macroinvertebrates
17.12.18	Dr. Alberto Jiménez-Valverde Dept. of Life Science, Alcalà University, Madrid, E	Deconstructing the abundance-suitability relationship